ACKNOWLEDGE IT

Barre Has to Bow to the Inevitable.
Scores of Citizens Prove It.

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Barre given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this: Mrs. N. M. Nelson, 18 West street, Barre, Vt., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills to-day as when I publicly recommended them over eleven years ago. At that time I was suffering from kidney trouble, which had been brought on by an attack of la grippe. I steadily grew worse, and the slightest housework tired me. If I were on my feet for an hour or so sharp pains across my back compelled me to sit down. Then other symptoms of kidney complaint appeared and I was really in a bad way. I spent over one hundred dollars for doctors' prescriptions and medicines of various kinds, but as I found no relief, I became discouraged. One day my husband brought home a box of Doan's Kidney Pills from Drown's drug store and told me to try them. A few doses brought the best of results, and I continued taking the remedy until entirely relieved. My children have also used this preparation with splendid results, and in view of these experiences, I advise other kidney sufferers to give it a trial."

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

"Billy the Kid" Visits Barre Opera House Friday Night.

"Billy the Kid," the popular melodrama, is one of the best examples of its kind of this season's production. The play has for its locale that portion of the great Southwest which lies near the Mexican frontier. It tells a story of absorbing interest and is filled with situations, both highly dramatic and of that intensity demanded by the lovers of this class of performance. The central figure is that of a young man, forced to outwary by his own father, yet there is an exceptionally well defined love interest and plenty of good comedy situations. The management is said to have been lavish in the production and general mounting of the play, and to have selected an exceptionally well balanced company of players. The play will come to the opera house next Friday night, November 9.

NOW SOLD IN AMERICA

In Less Than Three Years, Parisian Sage, the Splendid Hair Tonic, Is Sold All Over America.

There is a reason for the phenomenal sale of Parisian Sage in the United States during the past three years. And the reason is plain to all: Parisian Sage does just what it is advertised to do.

Ask the Red Cross Pharmacy about it. They will tell you that they rigidly guarantee to cure dandruff, itching hair or itching scalp in two weeks, or money back.

There is no reason whatever why any man or woman should fail to take advantage of the above generous offer.

But one thing that has made Parisian Sage so famous is its peculiar power to turn the harsh, unattractive hair that many women possess into luxuriant and radiant hair in a short time. Women of refinement the country over are using it and it never disappoints.

Sold everywhere, and in Barre by the Red Cross Pharmacy, for 50 cents a bottle.

WILLIAMSTOWN

Methodist Church Repaired and Now Open for Worship Again.

The house of worship in Williamstown owned and occupied by the Methodist people was built in 1806 under the pastorate of Rev. W. J. Kidder at an expense of over $7,000. It was dedicated February 5, 1807. There were present the following ministers, Rev. W. J. Kidder, Rev. Mr. Barnard, Rev. J. A. Sherburn, Rev. L. Hill, Rev. J. Gill, Rev. T. B. Taylor, Rev. M. Lewis and Rev. A. L. Cooper. Of these, only the last named is now living. Beautiful as this house was, and worthy of the true pride of the people, it has for a long time needed a thorough renovation. Aside from a new carpet, furnace, electric lighting and outside painting, very little has been done in the way of repairs during these past forty-three years.

Last June, a committee, consisting of the pastor, Rev. William N. Roberts, E. H. Martin and H. M. Jeffords, was appointed by the church board to take the matter in hand. The first encouragement came to them from two former townsmen, Solon and Charles A. Briggs, now of Pasadena, Cal., in the form of a letter full of good cheer and brotherly interest in the work of the Lord in the house church, of sending a check to cover cost of a memorial window; to be placed in the front of the church. This check was the key which started the good work. The second encouragement came from the Ladies' Aid of the church, in a pledge of six hundred dollars. The good work so well begun, has been successfully carried through.

The center of the old gallery has been taken out, thus throwing the large window into the audience room. On either side is a vestibule entrance, with swing doors opening into the main room. A hardwood floor has been laid and a steel ceiling placed, of very pretty pattern. Memorial windows have been placed throughout the church. The large front one bears the inscription, "Briggs Memorial, 1906," emblem a dove; the first on the right, "In memory of James Hatch," emblem, a star; second, "In memory of Kimball P. and Delana Martin," emblem, a cross; the third, "Martin memorial," bearing the following names, "Daniel Damon, James, David, Edson, Smith, Abigail, Herbert P. and Gordon Martin," emblem, an anchor; the first on the left, "In memory of John Adams," emblem, a crown; the second, "In Memoriam, John Farham," emblem, a cross; the third, "Lanka Hatch Memorial," emblem, a cross; the fourth, "To the memory of Rice and Susan Davenport, who for nearly fifty years were faithful members of this church," emblem, an open Bible.

These windows are of rich coloring and shed a very soft, pretty light throughout the church. The choir platform has been raised and extended to the speaker's platform, the latter having been brought farther front. The door between the two has been done away with. A new pulpit set has been placed. The pulpit is a gift from Henry L. Field, in memory of his father, Rev. Daniel Field, a former pastor of this church, and later a resident of Williamstown, where his death occurred on Sunday morning, May 20, 1883. His widow resides at York, Pa. The communion table is a gift from the youngest son, James Olney Field, of Zanesville, Ohio. These are of light oak, beautifully carved.

A triple seat, with loose, upholstered cushions and solid wood back, completes the set. Suitable descriptions for both pulpit and table are soon to be placed. Very neat and comfortable oak pews take the place of the old ones. Chairs fill the space formerly occupied by the wing pews. The platform and stairs are covered with a carpet of a very neat pattern, rubber trends being used at the entrances. The beauty and coloring of the ceiling and walls show the good taste and skill of the decorators. The vestry adjoining is improved by a hardwood floor, new windows and newly dressed walls, the latter being done by O. W. Dickinson and Thomas Palmer. The painting of the outside of the building by the same workmen must not be overlooked. The front of the church bears a new bulletin board, bearing the following, "Centenary M. E. Church, Built 1806, Rev. W. J. Kidder Pastor," beside the regular services.

The entire expenditure is over $22,000. Much credit is due to the committee, and especially to the pastor for his tact and perseverance in raising the necessary funds, and in his constant supervision of the work, from the beginning to the completion of the enterprise. Due credit is also given to all members and friends of the church for their hearty co-operation and help in work given as well as money, without which the enterprise could not have been undertaken.

The reopening of the house for worship occurred Sunday, November 14, in union service being held, and the church being filled. The music was under the direction of James Wallbridge, who held the position of chorister for nearly, if not quite, a quarter of a century, and the hope is that he will be able to hold it for many years yet to come. The pastor made brief remarks, calling attention to the gifts of the Field brothers, also to the hymnal book, a gift of Rev. Jesse Martin, a native of the town, and until recently a member of the Vermont conference, now transferred to Rockville, Conn. Then last, but by no means least, to a gift from Mrs. George Nichols in the form of collection boxes, without which no Methodist church would be complete. They were at once put in use in taking the regular weekly collection.

The Rev. D. H. Strong of the Congregational church offered prayer, Scripture was read, and sermon preached by the district superintendent, Rev. P. W. Lewis. This house of the Lord again stands as at the first, a clean, modern and beautiful, a testimony for the years to come of the loyalty of the Methodist people of Williamstown.

The members and attendants of the Methodist church were invited to the persons on Saturday, Nov. 13, to rejoice together over the completion of this church repair enterprise. A social time was enjoyed, and a beautiful dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid to over fifty people; after which, under the leadership of the district superintendent, Rev. P. W. Lewis of St. Johnsbury, and Rev. F. R. Daniels of Chelsea, all went in procession to the church for a formal inspection of the audience room in its new dress and improved arrangement. Later, all were invited to the vestry, where a pleasant surprise awaited them in the unveiling of the new windows. The pastor presented these in a few well chosen words. One, bearing the inscription, "Epworth League, Chapter 3801," was from the Epworth League. The second, "A Tribute to the Ladies' Aid Society, Organized 1877," the third, "In Memory of Mrs. Rev. W. J. Kidder, by whose efforts this vestry was built in 1807," the fourth, "Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church." These last three were provided for by the tact and perseverance of the pastor in disposing of old pews and other material. District Superintendent Lewis then unveiled the fifth window, with the autograph inscription, "A Tribute from Rev. Wm. N. Roberts, Pastor, 1909." Each one was very enthusiastically received. After a brief session of the quarterly conference, all went home in a happy mood, and all expressed the desire that the pastor might remain to enjoy the fruit of his labors.

The Village Improvement society will meet in their reading room in Beckett block Tuesday evening, November 23, and it is earnestly hoped that all new members will be present.

Elmer Tracy, accompanied by his physician, Dr. E. B. Watson, was taken to the hospital in Montpelier for an operation for appendicitis, on Tuesday of this week.

Ex-Conductor Frank W. Flint has been so poorly of late at his home in Windsor as to give his friends great anxiety for his life. His brother, Horace, is with him just now, and writes that hope is entertained that he may live on for a time yet.

Miss Helen Kimball, now of Richmond, is here, assisting her partner, Miss Millie Drury, in the use of their vacuum carpet cleaner. These ladies seem to have had a good demand for their work, which, we judge, has given good satisfaction in the months past.

Just now our village is in the throes of a granite lookout, which came upon us Tuesday morning like a cyclone. Without attempting to settle any of the vexed questions pertaining to it, we shall all be glad for a speedy settlement of them and, so, a resumption of work.

The committee for the fancy articles, at the Universalist ladies' chicken-pie supper and sale at the Orange hall Friday afternoon and evening of this week, Nov. 19, wishes to ask that all having articles to contribute leave them at the hall, as early in the afternoon as possible. Among the attractions of the evening will be a beautiful white shawl, to be voted away. All are invited to come and enjoy the evening.

News has just come of the sudden death last Sunday, from apoplexy, of Dr. Charles E. Hall of Greenville, N. H., a native of Barre, and older daughter of the late Rev. P. F. Barnard, for years a pastor of our Congregational church. He is said to have been the most influential man in his community, where he had lived 35 years as a physician and pharmacist. He had been a member of both the House of Representatives and the Senate in the New Hampshire legislature. He was a college educated man and had been conspicuous in the affairs of his town for years. He was buried under the auspices of both Masonic and Odd Fellows lodges. "Up to the moment of his death he seemed to be in the enjoyment of perfect health." He left only a wife, to whom we extend the sympathy of friends here.

Simplified Oratorios.

The new minister was consulting the organist as to the music to be sung on his first Sunday.

"And besides the hymn tunes," said the organist, whose daily occupation was that of plumber and iceman for the village, "we always have two selections from the choir, from real classical music, generally from one of Handel's or Haydn's oratorios."

"Why, that is good news," said the minister, who was no mean musician and had a cultivated taste and ear. "But don't you find the music rather difficult for untrained singers?"

"Well, they aren't untrained, for I train 'em," said the organist with some resentment. "And, besides that, where the music's difficult I alter it for 'em. I strike out all the cadenzas and trills and things of that kind, and where the set runs too low or too high I either set it up or down an octave, or if I can't do that I just have 'em quit singing, and I put on the vox humana stop and play the tune till it gets into their range again. It's easy enough when you know how to do it."

English "Consols."

The young woman who has been explaining in the London police court that she expected £15 lost in consols to bring her to 10 shillings in the pound interest knew about as much concerning "the runs" as the elder Mr. Weller. You recall Sam Weller's score upon discovering that his father supposed "reduced consols" to be alive. But there is one single point about consols which most people, probably including many who possess some, could not answer offhand—of what exactly is the name an abbreviation? There is nothing even to remind us of it. Even the precise persons who would die rather than contract "omnibus," "telephone" or "photograph" never speak of "consolidated annuities."—London Chronicle.

The First Firearms.

The early history of firearms in the sense of tubes from which missiles are thrown by the action of a detonating compound of the nature of gunpowder is wrapped in obscurity, though it may be inferred from the few early records that such weapons were first employed in warfare soon after the beginning of the fourteenth century, if not some time before. The country of their origin remains uncertain, but it was most probably Italy.

ROLLERS OF CONCRETE

Process For Making Cheap and Desirable Farm Articles.

A concrete roller is a very desirable article to have on a farm. One may be made at slight cost that will be quite as serviceable as an iron roller costing several dollars. Following is described a simple and practical way of making a concrete roller. The first cut shows two completed rollers, one with an iron handle, the other with one of wood; 2 by 4 should be used for side pieces. The weight of a concrete roller may be figured at about 150 pounds per cubic foot. These directions will be for making a roller eighteen inches long and eighteen inches in diameter, weighing, therefore, about 400 pounds. Larger sizes may be made by merely changing the dimensions of the forms.

Have a tinier cut No. 24 galvanized sheet iron to a size 18 by 57 inches and roll in its machine until the edges lap two or three inches. Get some strips one-half or five-eighths inch thick and two inches wide. Cut eight pieces one foot long and one piece seven inches long. Select a smooth board surface two feet or more square.

Drive a nail in the center and tie a string to it. Fasten a pencil to the string just nine inches from the nail and draw a circle eighteen inches in diameter. Take the eight pieces cut out, lay them on the circle, with each piece just projecting beyond the circle. Nail these firmly together where they overlap with small nails.

Mark the same circle on this form and cut out with a compass saw. Nail the seventeen inch strip across this and bore a hole exactly in the center to fit the axle, which should be a piece of shifting one inch in diameter, or three-quarter inch gas pipe two feet long.

Next make a baseboard about two feet square of dressed lumber, cleats on the underside. Bore a hole in the center of a size to fit the axle. Lay the follower before made over this and put the axle through both holes. Take the sheet iron and place around the follower, drawing it up snugly. Drive fifteen or twenty eighteen penny nails into the baseboard close up around the sheet iron to hold it in place. Draw the follower to the top of the sheet iron and put another wire around the latter to keep it from spreading out also one or two at the center. The second cut shows this clearly.

When ready to fill place the baseboard on a solid surface, allowing the axle to project three inches below the top of the baseboard. Coat inside of sheet iron and baseboard with linseed oil or lubricating oil. Make a concrete of one part portland cement, two parts of sharp sand and three or four parts of small stone, well mixed and wet enough to pour. Raise the follower about six inches from the bottom and pour in two or three inches of concrete. Tamp thoroughly. The object of tamping is not so much to settle the concrete as to remove air bubbles and get the stone away from the forms, so as to have a smooth surface. Raise the follower three or four inches and pour in more concrete, and so on until the form is full. As the follower is raised it keeps the sheet iron perfectly round and the shaft in the center. Take the follower off and smooth the top with a trowel. Remove the sheet iron in a day or two, but do not move the roller or baseboard for a week. The roller should harden two weeks before using.

Picking Hops.

There are two drawbacks to hop picking. One is so called hop poisoning, which is simply a sort of prickly heat or rash, sometimes produced by contact of face and arms with the nettle-like fuzz on the stalks of the hop vine. It does not affect all pickers. The other is the dark staining of the hands resulting from the resin of the blossom. It may be removed with the crushed green leaves of the hop.

Under-sized Birds.

Little chickens confined in close quarters take on flesh and fat at the expense of bone and frame. Such birds will be undersized and make poor breeders.

The sires in flock, drove or herd should be changed often enough so that the vigor of the offspring will not be impaired by inbreeding. In many cases a sire in every way first class and well bred may be exchanged for another of a different strain in a different locality.
